A FIERCE FIGHT IN PHILIPPINES

Between Insurgents and Uncle Sam's Men,

OVER A DISARMAMENT POLICY

Gen. Pershing Makes Report
On Battle With Rebels
At Bagaag.

BIGGEST FIGHT YET REPORTED

Washington, June 13.—"Probably no fiercer battle since American occupation" is the description by Brig. Gen. Pershing of the battle with the Moros yesterday at Bagaag, in his report by cable to-day to the War Department.

The Moros made desperate attempts to rush the American lines, but were finally beaten back and overwhelmed. Their leader, Amil, and several other noted outlaws were reported killed, but the total loss of the Moros was not reported.

One American officer, Taylor Nichols, of the Philippine Scouts, was killed; First Lieut. Edwin H. Rackley, Philippine Scouts, was wounded, and three Philippine Scouts, of the Fifty-first company, all natives, were killed. Gen. Pershing's report was as follows:

"On June 12 the Moros' resistance at Bagaag was formidable and their fort and trenches on the precipitous side of the crater not only supported each other strongly, but were defended with modern arms. The Moros fanatically and continuously tried to rush the American lines, but the careful disposition of our force held the American loss to a minimum. Probably there has been no fiercer battle since American occupation."

"Maj. George C. Shaw, of the Philippine Scouts, commanded the right wing with Company M., Eighth Regiment, United States Infantry, and Fortieth Company Philippine Scouts. Capt. Taylor A. Nichols, of the Philippine Scouts, commanded the left wing with the Fifty-first, Fifty-second and Twenty-ninth Companies Philippine Scouts. A mounted gun was with each wing and proved of great assistance.

"At the close of yesterday Capt. Patrick Moyle, of the Philippine Scouts, with two companies was supporting the gun on Mount Bunga, and the American force occupied a controlling position on the rim of the crater.

"First Lieut. Edwin H. Rackley, Philippine Scouts, was slightly wounded and three Moro scouts of the Fifty-first company were killed. Capt. Taylor A. Nichols was killed in the early morning fight, and is a serious loss to the army. Amil and several leading outlaws are reported killed. Other Moro losses are still unknown."

A cablegram from Maj. Gen. Bell not only explains the reason for the attack upon the Moros' stronghold, but assumes responsibility with Gen. Pershing. Gen. Bell said:

The fight at Bagaag was incident to the disarmament policy of the Governor General (Cameron Forbes) and the Governor of the Moro province, adopted after many months of patient but fruitless negotiations and marked by promises disregarded by the Moros. A situation arose that I believe left no alternative. Amil and a relatively small following, occupying one part of the Island of Jolo, were the only Moros who refused to give up their arms peacefully.

"Disarmament was generally desired by the Moros themselves. All of the rest surrendered their arms months ago without resisting. Under the circumstances it was impossible and unjust to the disarmed Moros to permit a few of them to retain arms."

The scene of the Moros' last stand was on the small Island of Jolo, not much larger than the District of Columbia, but the jurisdiction under the Sultan is divided among a number of lesser chieftains. Daito Amil was one of the irreconcilables. He was a brigand and pirate, preying upon the peaceful element of his own people, and was especially dreaded by the farm workers of the North.

Gen. Pershing's report was made before the end of the battle, and Gen. Bell has called for details of the conclusion.

CHATTANOOGA AND ITS BATTLEFIELDS

Bring Back Memories Of Fifty Years Ago.

A LITTLE HISTORY OF SECTION

Where Famed Lookout Mountain Stands—How Indians Named It.

AN OLD SOLDIER'S BEVERIES

Surrounded by more battlefields within a radius of 20 miles than any other city of modern history, Chattanooga nestles in a valley between two historic mountains—Lookout and Missionary Ridge—and on the bank of the noted Tennessee river, with up-to-date municipal laws, modern sky-scraper buildings, manufacturing, wholesale and retail business houses with all modern facilities and conveniences. Built on a battlefield of the war between the States, 1861-5, she stands one of the most noted cities in history. Lookout is the queen of the mountains, and a landmark for generations to come. Her attractions are more numerous than any place in the United States, and equal to any in the world.

In the early settlement of the States, North Carolina and Virginia (west part) and the east part of Tennessee were settled long before the Unionists, middle Tennessee or vicinity of Chattanooga. The pioneers of western Virginia, western North Carolina and Eastern Tennessee had but one way to reach the market with their products and that was down the Tennessee river to the Ohio and the Mississippi to New Orleans, La. They built flat boats called "broadhorns," stowed their products in them and began the long journey to market.

Now the Indians soon learned that these boats were laden with valuable provisions which they could easily convert to their own use, so they used a certain rock on top of a high mountain to detect the boats coming down the river in time to intercept them with a body of Indians strong enough to overcome the members of the crew on the boat. They often failed to capture the boat, for the crews knew that it was death to be captured and they sold their lives for as many Indians as they could kill with their rifles and hunting knives, and often the Indians would withdraw, let the boat pass, and go back to their "lookout" on the mountain, with a hope of better luck next time. Hence we have the name Lookout Mountain and to this day Lookout Rock projects itself out beyond the laurel and cedar growth on the side of the mountain over the great Tennessee river.

Another noted point or projection is Umbrella Rock, and still another is Battery Point. All these places are projections from which the view is unobstructed, for miles and miles. From these and other points on this wonderful mountain, when the atmosphere is clear, one can see 7 States. To-day we can see on the brow of the mountain a magnificent monument, surrounded by a cobblestone wall and a well-kept park. There are two pieces of artillery that were used in the Civil War, located on Battery Point, and two pieces, not yet mounted, near the monument, that were used in the Spanish-American war. There are also two museums on the mountain with all kinds of war paraphernalia, mostly of the Civil War, also "the big book," a register for all visitors to the mountain. This book is said to be one of the largest books ever made and there are already over 33,000 names in it.

At the foot of the mountain is the little hamlet, St. Elmo, said to be the place where Augustus J. Evans wrote the book "St. Elmo," and where the incline railway begins its way to the top of the mountain, a distance of about half a mile. The cars make five round-trips each hour, each car carrying 45 passengers and no more under any circumstances. South of the incline is a wagon road winding its way to the top. An electric line is operated on top of the mountain that will convey you along the mountain for miles, through some of the grandest scenery in the South.

Front points on Lookout you may locate the following battlefields of the Civil War: Brown's Ferry, Walden's Ridge, Lookout Mountain, Lookout Creek, Chattanooga, Missionary Ridge, Tiner's Station, Tunnel Hill, Ringold and Cleckamauga, besides some cavalry battles beyond Walden's Ridge, all within 15 or 20 miles of Chattanooga. There is said to have been more casualties in this circle than on any battlefield of the same size in modern history. It is also said that Napoleon never fought a battle equal to Cleckamauga.

A visit to this wonderful battlefield is inspiring, and more especially so to one who was on the field when history was being made.

After nearly 50 years have passed it is a hard matter for one who was a private in the fighting ranks to locate the different positions of the contending lines, but the fields around Chattanooga are marked with monuments and markers, so that one can get the general bearings and then to some extent he can find the identical ground over which he moved. But as any soldier knows, a private is too busy in a hard-fought battle to pay any great attention to the general topography of the country. The roar of artillery, the snapping of small arms, the dust and smoke from black powder, are all dampers on a would-be investigator of the landscape. But notwithstanding all these adverse conditions, a man who was on a well contested field will get impressions of the lay of the land that even time will not eradicate, especially if he finds a convenient depression that would hold a man and let the bullets pass over instead of through him, and by using the markers now on the fields, one can locate such places as were impressed on his mind 50 years ago.

It is astonishing how vivid incidents that have lain dormant in the mind for so many years will flash out when one is brought in contact with the surroundings of the long ago. He can take a position that he recognizes, close his eyes to the present and live over the thrilling incidents of bygone days, when in his youth he was a participant in a history-making epoch. He feels as though he were again in the midst of the tumult of glorious war, results in having been one in the great struggle, can imagine he hears the bugle call to the charge, the rattle of the accoutrements as the men fall into line, and somewhere away out in front hear the irregular popping of the guns of the advance guard, which sound more like an old-fashioned wood chopping than anything else; then hear the "ping" of the passing balls, the occasional boom of a cannon, hear the ball pass over head with a scream that sounds like it had a piece of tin hung to it, note the rapid increase in the strokes of the woodchoppers, a closer roar of the guns, and now and then a yell that makes the hair stand on end. Then he sees the commander take his place in front of the brigade, hears the command "Attention!" "Fix-bayonets!" "Forward!" "Charge!" immediately followed by the shrill notes of the bugle, distinctly heard above the roar and confusion in the front. Then the battle is on, THE GOD OF BATTLE REIGNS.

A half century has passed, the old man stands on the field, leans on a gun which took part in the battle on that identical spot, contemplates the present, sums up the future as through a glass darkly, and wonders what it was all about.

Chattanooga is certainly worth the time and cost of a visit by anyone, and more particularly to an old soldier who took part in the many stirring events that went to make the mountain city famous. It is instructive to the younger generation, interesting to all, and well worthy the attention and study of all American citizens.

THE EXCURSION TICKET AND ITS LIMITATIONS

When do twenty-four hours and one minute constitute two days? Answer: When you buy an excursion ticket at 11:59 p. m.

As any bright school boy or girl knows, the usual number of hours in two days is 48. But railroad clocks don't count that way. Any part of a day is one day with them, so that a "two-day excursion ticket" is really only one and a fraction day excursion ticket. If you take a round-trip ticket Monday evening at one minute before midnight it becomes void after midnight Tuesday. I do not pretend to have made any new discovery in this ticket business, but only call attention to a peculiar method of calculation.—[Philadelphia Ledger.]

WAR-TIME RULE IN STRIKE ZONE

Military Officers Frankly Recite Story.

MEN TRIED AND CONVICTED

Without Regard To the Civil Laws—Long Terms For Light Offenses.

OUTRAGES IN WEST VIRGINIA

Charleston, W. Va., June 11.—War time rule in the coal strike regions of West Virginia was described before the Senate Mine Investigating Committee here to-day, and after three military officers had described conditions the committee expressed itself satisfied as to the charge that "the citizens of West Virginia had been tried and convicted in violation of the Constitution and laws of the United States."

Two members of the Military Commission, which at three different times have assumed absolute dominion over 150 square miles of West Virginia territory, testified this afternoon. They were Capt. Charles R. Morgan, a lawyer, and Maj. James L. Pratt, who was president of the second military court which took charge of the strike district. Both told the committee that their proceedings were conducted without regard to the civil laws of the State; that they arrested, arraigned, tried and convicted offenders in the strike zone without recourse to process of the civil courts, and they imposed sentences without regard to the limitations imposed by the statutes of West Virginia.

"We considered the entire strike district was in a state of actual warfare," said Capt. Morgan with soldierly frankness, "and we acted according to the procedure of the United States army in time of war."

"But the constitution of the State provides," interjected Attorney Monnet, "for the miners, 'that the military shall be subordinate to the civil power, and no citizen engaged in military service of the State shall be tried or punished in any offense that is cognizable by the civil courts of the State.'"

"My understanding was," replied Capt. Morgan, "that during this state of insurrection which prevailed the constitution of the State of West Virginia had been suspended by the acts of these men who were burning, killing and destroying property."

"Yes, sir," replied the militia officer, "that is, we believed these men had suspended the constitution and that in order to perpetuate the State of West Virginia and restore the constitution we were justified in using extreme measures."

Capt. Morgan declared that the military commission believed that its authority was unlimited under the general order issued by Gov. Glasscock which provided the military commission "is substituted for the criminal courts of the district covered by the martial law proclamation, and all offenses against the civil laws, as they existed prior to the proclamation of November 15, 1912, shall be regarded as offenses under the military law, and in punishment therefor the military commission can impose such sentences, either lighter or heavier than those imposed under the civil law, as in their judgment the offender may merit."

Both Capt. Morgan and Major Pratt asserted that the commission did not feel itself limited by the statutory provision fixing punishment for offenses, and Maj. Pratt gave several instances of sentences imposed by the commission exceeding the statutory punishment.

A dozen pictures of men clad in prison clothing, and with heads shaved, were identified by Major Pratt, as men who had been sentenced by the Military Commission and sent to jail. One was given a sentence of seven and a half years for perjury, several others were given three, four and five years terms for "interfering with officers."

"Was there any indictment or other civil process presented against these men?" asked Senator Borah.

"No," answered Major Pratt, "they were arraigned on charges and specifications prepared by the judge advocate general."

Senator Borah elicited that Capt. Morgan, as a lawyer, believed that there was no appeal from the decision of the commission, if approved by the Governor, except to the Supreme Court of the United States.

"Then a man did not have to commit a statutory offense to make himself amenable to the action of your commission?" asked Attorney Monnet.

"No."

"You could arraign him for anything that in your estimation was an offense?"

"Yes, except that the Governor's proclamation specified statutory offenses."

Senator Morgan ascertained that after the Commission had heard the testimony in a case it went into secret session, executed sealed findings, after the manner of a verdict, and sent them to the Governor.

"Then the poor devil did not know what you had done with him until he was gobbled up and carted away to the penitentiary?" suggested the New Jersey Senator.

"That's right," answered Capt. Morgan, and the spectators smiled.

It was developed that as many as forty-nine accused men were tried at one time by the Commission.

"There was no opportunity given a man to secure a trial on the discovery of new evidence, no opportunity to give bail, no possibility of the issuance of a stay of execution, your decision was first, last and final," suggested Mr. Monnet.

"Yes," answered Capt. Morgan.

"If you had sentenced a man to death there was no way of stopping the execution if the Governor approved it?" asked Senator Borah.

"We did not contemplate imposing death sentences," replied the witness.

"I think the committee has ample testimony on this branch of the inquiry," remarked Senator Borah.

"The statement of facts seem full and complete."

Adjt. Gen. Charles D. Elliott had occupied the morning session and part of the afternoon session. Tonight Senator Borah took up witnesses produced by the mine workers to testify as to charges that peonage obtaina in the Paint and Cabin Creek sections. A hundred brawny miners came in from the hills to-day and the attorneys for the mine workers weeded out the witnesses they wanted to call in connection with this branch of the inquiry.

There is no real need of anyone being troubled with constipation. Chamberlain's Tablets will cause an agreeable movement of the bowels without any unpleasant effect. Give them a trial. For sale by all dealers.

Paducah, Ky., June 12.—An official act that probably has no precedent in Kentucky was when Miss Polly Durrett issued her own marriage license. Miss Durrett has served as Deputy County Court Clerk under Col. G. S. Slagleton for several years, and was to-day married to County Assessor George B. Allen. After several lawyers said that the license would be legal Miss Durrett accepted the dare and issued her own license. She asked her fiance all the questions required by law.

GOOD PROSPECTS FOR FINE CROPS

Outlook For the State Continues Good.

ABOUT HALF A TOBACCO CROP

Planted, But Condition Good —Report Is Issued On New Basis.

A WARNING AS TO "PINKEYE"

Frankfort, Ky., June 13.—The splendid prospects for crops in Kentucky, shown by the Crop report of May 1, issued by the State Department of Agriculture, have been maintained to June 1, says the report. The report also speaks of the catarrhal fever, which is prevalent and fatal among horses in all sections of the State.

Lack of rain in the extreme western part and excessive moisture in the central and eastern portions are the only drawbacks to crop conditions.

The report follows:

"The May crop report is issued on an entirely different basis from my previous report. During the last winter, based on the 1910 census, the State has been divided into nine crop-reporting districts and each district given a percentage weight in proportion to the yield of that crop in that district when compared with the total yield for the State. This is the plan governing the crop reporting for the Federal Government. There are now three separate sets of reporters reporting in this same way to three separate heads. We believe this will give us a more accurate summary of crop conditions than the State has ever yet gotten out.

Good Prospect Maintained.

The splendid prospects for a good crop May 1 have been generally maintained up to June 1. A great deal of complaint comes from Western Kentucky of lack of moisture. Central and Eastern Kentucky suffered from the same cause during the first of the month, and have suffered from an excessive amount of moisture during the latter part of May. However, most of the crops are in good condition, relatively speaking. Wheat shows condition of 85.7 per cent. and is doing well. The corn crop is not all planted, but there is an indicated crop of 94.5 per cent. The condition of planted corn is reported as 90.8 per cent. The oats crop—89.4 per cent. and condition 79.4 per cent. The condition of rye is 56.4 per cent. It will be noted that an early drought affected the rye and oats crops considerably. The same is true of timothy. The condition of potatoes is given as 93.1 per cent., indicating a splendid crop.

Outlook For Tobacco.

"About 52.8 per cent. of an average crop of dark tobacco has been transplanted, which shows a condition of 81.7 per cent.; 57.5 per cent. of the Burley crop was transplanted by June 1, with condition of 81 per cent. The tobacco plants in the dark district are reported small and scarce, indicating a shortage in the crop, while in the Hurley district they are reported in splendid condition and plentiful. Excessive rains have occurred throughout the State since the first of June, and every prospect is for an average planting of Burley and a fairly large crop of dark. Many complain of cut worms both for tobacco and corn. The bluegrass seed crop will be a short one. The condition of grasses is given as: Bluegrass, 88.6 per cent.; clover, 81 per cent.; alfalfa, 80 per cent., and orchard grasses, 84 per cent. The drought has affected pastures in Western Kentucky, but in Central and Eastern Kentucky the pastures are good.

Live Stock and Fruits.

"Cattle are reported in good condition; hog cholera is not so bad as during the winter months, and the condition of sheep and lambs has done well, and there is a splendid crop of young chickens, turkeys and other fowls.

"The condition of apples is 85 per cent.; peaches, 78.5 per cent.; pears, 61 per cent.; grapes, 89 per cent.; plums, 67 per cent.; cherries, 64.5 per cent. The strawberry crop has been fairly good. There is every promise for one of the largest blackberry crops the State has ever had.

"Pinkeye". Among Horses.

"There is a disease known as catarrhal fever or "pinkeye" among horses in several counties. The disease is proving fatal in many instances, and farmers are warned against taking animals into towns where this disease is known to exist and against working them if the animals once become infected. This department has on hand directions for handling this malady, a bulletin prepared by the State veterinarian, Dr. Robert Graham, and directions for disinfecting infected stables. These will be sent free upon application to the department.

Cultivation of Corn.

"There has been a large corn crop planted, the stand is almost perfect, and farmers are urged to try shallow and frequent cultivation for the coming season. The old idea that three or four plowings are sufficient to make a corn crop, should be abandoned, and, if possible, plow five, six or seven times, but plow shallow. The farmer can very nearly count on getting an extra barrel of corn per acre for every extra plowing he gives his corn. If it is a bushel, it will nearly pay its cost.

A Little Too Hot.

OLD STORY REVIVED

Of all the yarns that ever came down the line regarding deep mud, the following should be entitled to the blue ribbon. It happened in the place where mud originated:

A man was walking along the roadside one day and noticed a fairly good looking hat out in the road. Reaching out with his cane, he gave it a cut and was startled to hear a voice, exclaim: "Here, what the deuce are you doing?" Then he made the astonishing discovery that the owner of the headpiece was under the hat, up to his ears in mud. "Great heavens!" exclaimed the man who had hit the hat. "Is that mud as deep as that?" "Deep!" cried the victim. "Why, man alive, I'm standing on a load of hay!"

BRINGING TO LIFE OF DEAD PERSON

By Transfusion Of Blood Is Now Possible.

THE LIFE OF PATIENT SAVED

After He Was "Moribund To Human Knowledge," Says Doctor.

AMAZING RESULTS OBTAINED

New York, June 13.—The miracle of bringing the dead back to life, Dr. A. L. Soresi, of Fordham University, thinks will be a scientific achievement of the future. Dr. Soresi, who is attached to the staff of the Flower Hospital, for five years has conducted experiments of transfusion of blood, with results, he says, that are amazing.

Prof. Soresi to-day told of saving the life of a male patient, and the body was apparently moribund. After the explanation of his experiments with transfusion of blood in animals, Prof. Soresi said.

"An experiment with a male pneumonia patient was perhaps not as spectacular, but more gratifying in results. This patient was entirely without respiration from all tests applied and therefore actually moribund to human knowledge when I made a transfusion of blood from a normal man through the jugular vein of the patient. The return to life was prompt and recovery followed in due course.

"If such transfusions could be made promptly, the loss of life would be materially lowered.

"In a recent experiment at Flower Hospital, I pumped all the blood from a dog until the animal lay absolutely lifeless. For 16 minutes I allowed the animal to remain without a spark of life. The heart had stopped beating and every function of life had ceased.

"I connected the blood vessels of the dog with those of another dog and permitted the blood to flow. Inside of five minutes there was a complete return of life, and the dog soon was yelping in an entirely normal way. Other experiments with dogs have yielded amazing results.

"When the way has been found to connect directly with the left side of the heart, medical science will be able to restore human beings to life after all animation has been suspended, provided there is no organic trouble. The resuscitation will be effective in cases of gas or drug poisonings, hemorrhages and such diseases as typhoid and pneumonia. Sudden death by accident when no vital organ has been crippled, will fall within the scope of the transfusion method.

"Under the new science it will be possible to restore life after it has been extinct for half an hour. I am devoting most of my time to these experiments, and hope before long to be able to make an important announcement to the world of science."

Best Laxative for the Aged.

Old men and women feel the need of a laxative more than young folks, but it must be safe and harmless and one which will not cause pain. Dr. King's New Life Pill is especially good for the aged, for they act promptly and easily. Price 25c. Recommended by James H. Williams.

REMEDY FOR NOSE BLEED IS EASILY APPLIED

There are two little arteries which supply the whole face with blood, one on each side. These branch off from the main arteries on each side of the windpipe, and, running upward toward the eyes, pass over outside of the jawbone, about two-thirds of the way back from the chin to the angle of the jaw, under the ear. Now, suppose your nose bleeds by the right nostril; with the end of the forefinger feel along the outer edge of the right jaw until you feel the beating of the artery directly under your finger, the same as the pulse in your wrist; then press the finger hard upon it, thus getting the little fellow in tight place between your finger and the jawbone. The result will be that not a drop of blood goes into that side of the face while the pressure continues; hence the nose instantly stops bleeding.

for want of blood to flow, and the ruptured vessels in the nose will probably be that time contracted, so that when you let the blood into them they will not bleed. Bleeding from a cut or wound anywhere about the face may be stopped in the same way.—(Family Doctor.)

LAWS FOR WOMEN, BY WOMEN—AN INSTANCE

The following incident, clipped from an Eastern paper, is recommended to those indulging in the curious opinion that laws relating to women ought to be made by women. A young woman was charged with attempting suicide. It seems that eight years ago she was so indiscreet as to become a mother under circumstances that may be described as unconventional. She concealed the birth of the child and supported it and herself by honest work. But misfortune disclosed the fact which she had successfully hidden for eight years. All her women friends deserted her, ostracized and gibbeted her, she was compelled to move away, and so she lost her situation and could not get another, and, finally she took to drink and then tried to kill herself. Let us try to imagine what kind of "laws for women" would be passed by these evil vultures who, unashamedly and unctly, drove that poor girl to suicide.

When your child has whooping cough be careful to keep the cough loose and expectoration easy by giving Chamberlain's Cough Remedy will also liquefy the tough mucus will also liquefy the tough mucus and make it easier to expectorate. It has been used successfully in many epidemics and is safe and sure. For sale by all dealers. (Advertisement.)

Only 26 more weeks till Christmas!

Automobiles are getting to be nearly as numerous as buggies in Hartford.

What is so rare as a nice warm day in June, according to the first half of it?

Christmas Jokes in June is the latest stunt of the magazines and newspaper press. Inspired, we suppose,
by the recent weather.

Ex-President Taft says he is the happiest man in the world now, since he left the White House. The whole country seems to share his happiness in this respect.

You don't have to go to a circus nowadays to witness a daring bareback scene. Most any public reception or banquet where the ladies of the "400" are stylishly attired will furnish the "act."

If you are traveling along the road and hear a curious noise behind you that sounds like a billy-goat bellowing into an empty barrel, you will soon get to know what it is. Just one of those modern automobile alarms.

It is said that a horned frog
hopped into the office of an Alabama newspaper, stood on its hind legs on the editor's desk and winked
at the scribe. The picture would have been more complete if his frogship had carried a dollar bill tucked under a fore leg to pay its subscription a year in advance.

At the great Democratic rally in Hartford on October 12, 1911, Gov.
McCreary said in his speech that he would never again be a candidate for any office—that if the people would only give him the Governor-ship once more, he would be satisfied and willing to quit politics the balance of his life. Now he is a candidate for the Senatorship. What think you?

They are talking about making Olympian Springs the permanent annual meeting place for the Kentucky Press Association. We hope not. Olympian Springs is a fine place, but for a permanent location
the place should be more centrally located. The changing of the meeting place each year, except the last meet, has lent a charming and entertaining variety to these events,
and it would seem the best plan to keep it up.

We recently published an account of a case of suspended animation, wherein a young man laid for long periods at a time in a state of coma. We thought these instances were rare, but come to think of it, they are very common. You can find a case in every store that doesn't advertise, and also in those citizens of a community who have no aspirations above a bare existence and whose ambition couldn't be stirred with a dozen sticks of dynamite. Yes, these symptoms of suspended animation are quite common.

There are many indications to show that political office-holding,
after it once gets thoroughly inocu-nated in a man's system, assumes the form of a disease—as yet undefined by the medical fraternity.
It is rather hard to get cured of,
and breaks out afresh every now and again, thus showing its intermittent qualities. Sometimes, after the root of the trouble (the incumbency) has been removed, it lies dormant for awhile, only to return with the same old tenacity.
This is said to be incurable as long as life lasts. It is not a bad disease, so far as personal health is concerned, and no alarm should be felt at its prevalence.

In giving an account of the observance of Boone Day (June 7) at Frankfort, in which a large number of prominent personages took part,
the Frankfort State-Journal says:

"An original story, founded on an incident in the history of Hartford, Ohio county, written by Mrs.
Holmes Cummins, a Frankfort writer, best known for her children's stories, and published in a current magazine, was read by Mrs.
Jennie C. Morton. The story was a characteristic sketch of slavery days, written in delightful style."

Mr. and Mrs. Cummins were present and sat down at the delightfully appointed dinner which followed the program, along with a large number of other distinguished guests. Mrs. Cummins, who was formerly Miss Tula Pendleton, of Hartford, is one of the bright lights in the literary world just now, and many friends in her "Old Kentucky

Home" here are glad to know that "the sun shines bright" for the charming girl whom they always remember with pleasure.

BEAVER DAM.

June 16.—Mr. John H. Barnes is going to erect two brick business houses, each to be two stories high,
on the lot where the fire occurred
last August, and Mr. Wes Hocker will erect a livery barn on his lot on Main street, south of the railroad.

Prof. Stillwell has moved with his family to his new home on Main street.

Mr. R. C. Bosley, an old war veteran of Morgan's command, of Centillan, Ky., is in town, visiting his two daughters, Mrs. H. Oldham and Mrs. Art Peters.

Mrs. Lucy Rhoads, of Brownwood, Texas, is visiting Mrs. Puss Rhoads and her daughter, Miss Kill-

Mr. and Mrs. Otis Likens and Miss Alta Likens, of Caneville, were guests at the Alford-Williams
wedding here last week.

Miss Myrl Taylor is visiting the family of Mr. Fred Taylor, Princeton, Ky., and taking in the Chautauqua in that city.

Mr. Joe Doed, a clerk in the Taylor Mine Company store, had a nice cottage erected for his future home and moved into same last week. When his move was completed his little wife presented him with an eight-pound Democrat. The mother and child are doing well and Joe is the happiest clerk in the Taylor Mine store.

Mr. V. M. Stewart is in Louisville
on business.

BENNETTS.

June 16.—Rev. Day filled Rev.
Vanhey's appointment at Bethel church Sunday, the latter being unable to be there.

Mr. Frank Black and daughter Miss Edna, of East Hartford, attended services at Bethel Sunday.

Mr. Otis Wallace, recently of this place, left Saturday for Bowling Green, where he will enter school.

Mrs. Daniel Leeler, of Illinois, is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs.
Isaac Sapp.

Mr. Payne Faught, who fell and injured his back some time ago, is improving.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Miller and family, Miss Myrtle Thompson and Mr.
Noble Parrot, of Williams Mines, were the guests of Mr. Frank Maples Sunday.

Rev. Miller preached at Sunnydale Thursday night. He was accompanied by his nephew, Mr. Jeff Pickerill.

Mr. John Brown met with a very painful accident last week. He was working at an oil well which is being drilled on his farm and had his hand caught in the machinery,
mashing his thumb off and bruising
his hand very badly.

Rev. Miller has made an addition to his store.

Mr. Fred Tatum, of Simons, is in this neighborhood this week.

WORDS OF APPRECIATION
FROM METHODIST PASTOR

When Mrs. Snaville and myself stepped into our home, (the parsonage) June the 8th, I saw a verification of what some of the people said would happen to me if I were to get married. That is, I would get a severe "pounding," and I assure you I was beaten very badly.
I shall not begin to tell what was at the parsonage, for it would be hardly possible; but all kinds of good things were there, enough almost to start us housekeeping.

I hardly think it necessary that I should tell you we heartily appreciate what you did for us. It is natural that we should appreciate the things we received from you,
but our greatest appreciation was the spirit in which you gave them to us; it is as a spur to help me to do better things without the effects of the spur.

We are with you in your community and are glad to be here. We will get along all right for we are all right. We want to work together for the glory of God and the good of mankind. We shall stand by you and you will stand by us, and I am sure we shall have a fine year here.

The church will be helped and the people will be blessed. So may the Lord bless us all and help us to do the things which will be a credit to us and to him. Sincerely,

W. E. SAVILLE.

RICKETTS.

Dora Hoover, of this place.

Mr. and Mrs. Reuben Howard were in Hartford Friday on business.

nett's schoolhouse next Sunday by Bro. Wheeler. Everybody invited.

Party Ticket.

(Anent the order of the Postmaster General debarring all men 65 years old from holding a postmaster's position in any office where the annual salary is $500 or over.)

Whereas, A great number of Democrats in the United States have arrived at the age of 65 years and over, and

Whereas, These mature Democrats have become dangerous to the interests of the younger Democrats, in that they might succeed in having themselves appointed to some office that would be worth while for younger men, and

Whereas, We do not need Democrats that are 65 years old and over for any purpose other than voting and paying taxes, therefore be it

Resolved, 1st. That the Chemical Department of the United States
be and is hereby ordered and directed to make immediate preparation for the doing away with all Democrats over 65 years old, and just so soon as the arrangements can be made, the said Chemical department is ordered to destroy all Democrats that have arrived at the age above mentioned.

2d. That the said Chemical department is hereby directed to use all the means at their command to make the exit of the said Democrats as pleasant as may be; that they use all precautions possible to save the nerves of the families of said Democrats, that the work shall be done decently, quietly and with dispatch.

3d. That a commission be immediately appointed to assess the property of all the Democrats that will be destroyed under this act, and assess a reasonable valuation annually on said property for the remainning years that said Democrt might have lived if he had not been cut off in his miserable career, or up to the biblical term of three score and ten years (70). And be it further

Resolved, That we hereby extend to the families and friends of these decapitated Democrats, our heartfelt sympathy and recommend that they strictly refrain from ever attempting to corral any office
whatever under any Democratic administration. "Selah."

COLORED CHILDREN'S

HOME ALSO CRITICIZED

The Frankfort State Journal of Sunday says:

Two modest items, but similar in nature to that criticized by State
Inspector and Examiner Sherman Goodpastor in his report on the Kentucky Children's Home Society,
were criticized by Assistant State Auditor G. B. Likens in the accounts of the Kentucky Home Society for Colored Children, which were checked by him yesterday with President C. H. Parrish and Lee Brown, the bookkeeper. One was $9.90 for four round-trips to Frankfort made by Bessie Allen,
the secretary, and ten round-trips, $38, for President C. H. Parrish, both during the last session of the General Assembly. President Parrish explained that, these items came out of $800 raised by subscription for the home, and not out of the $10,000 appropriated by the State; but Mr. Likens said the two funds were not kept separate and he did not think these items of expense ought to be charged to the home. The accounts were all properly kept and balanced.

GERALVO.

and Miss Ida Lambert, of Horse Branch, were married at the home of Rev. Danks, Sunday, June 8.

Mrs. Anna Furier, of Evansville, is visiting her brother, Mr. Lee Tichenor, near here.

Mr. Addie Robertson, wife and children, Miss Ethel and Master
Vivian Miller, visited Mr. and Mrs.
J. H. Wood recently.

It is true that women more frequently suffer from kidney trouble than men. It is also true they suffer more intensely, owing to their more sensitive organism. Katherine L. Norton, New Bedford, Mass., says:
"I had a terrible pain across my back, with a burning and scalding feeling. I took Foley Kidney Pills as advised, with results certain and sure. The pain and burning feeling left me, I felt toned up and invigorated. I am glad to recommend Foley Kidney Pills." They are tonic in action, quick in results.

Friday, the 13th, was indeed a most unlucky day for at least one baseball aggregation in this neck of the woods. On that fair day at East End Park and before the largest crowd of the season, the visiting Owensboro Grays stacked up against our Oil Magnates. The Owensboro bunch came with quite a formidable reputation as expert performers in every branch of the national game, and they undoubtedly "delivered the goods," but they were entirely unprepared for the little surprise we had in store for them.

At 2:30 o'clock, with the interest of the "bugs" at fever heat, Empire Marvin Miller called "play ball." For Hartford, Rickard and Thorpe were on the points. Pirtle, an old Ohio county boy, and Bean performed for the Grays in the same positions.

The fun began in the first few minutes of play, and for awhile, it looked like our boys would knock the visitors' twirler out of the box.

To the first period Green, the first man at the bat for the locals, reached first when the visitors' backstop failed to hold the third strike.

Taylor laid down a nifty bunt, sacrificing the runner to second. Then it was that Rickard, Hartford's twirler, got his bat on the ball and proceeded to lose it beyond the left field fence, at the same time scoring three.

This sort of an opening was what was necessary to give our boys the required "pep" and they began slowly but surely to walk away with the game.

In the second bout neither side was able to count, but in our half of the third the home lads laid up another tally when Rickard scored from second on a two-bagger by Barnett. We added another counter in the next period.

To push things, "Pup" Thomas and Thorpe each helped himself to a pretty single and the former scored in a wild throw to second before the Oilstills could retire the remaining three men.

In the fifth inning the locals again managed to collect a bunch of pretty hits and as a result Green came in with Hartford's final score.

The next session was barren of results to both sides, but in the seventh Owensboro took a brace and managed to get their first man into counting territory.

At this point the Grays staged a rather extensive battling rally of which the headliners were a brace of two-baggers by Pirtle and Richardson and as many runs as a result.

In the next inning Bean, the visitors' backstop, came across with a timely double and before the smoke had cleared away, managed to get across the home plate with their last run and also the last of the game. After one more try at the bat by the Owensboro boys the fun was over.

On the whole this was a very pretty game, both teams putting up a high class article of ball.

The victory meant a great deal to our boys, for we had defeated perhaps the best and certainly the most feared semi-professional team in this part of the State. It is regretted that the game was marred by the constant "boeing" of some of the Owensboro players and the very disgraceful and unsportsmanlike treatment of Empire Miller by centerfielder Woodward and second baseman Witmer, of the Owensboro team, which resulted in Miller's refusal to finish the game and necessitated the drafting of R. T. Collins to umpire the remainder of the contest, in which, as always, he gave full satisfaction. The following was the a serious mistake to schedule two such hard games right together and as some expected, our boys came off with the little end of the score of a game which, in their normal condition, they would have had no trouble in winning. On account of an injury to his finger received the day before, Thorpe was unable to catch and as a result the line-up had to be almost entirely rearranged. This was an added handicap to the boys. However, in spite of these drawbacks, the Oil Magnates put up a very creditable game and at one time it looked like they were going to trounce the visitors.

Barnett and Rickard constituted the battery for Hartford; Fullerton, Withrow and McDuglin for Rockport. It was a hard game to lose, but still, seven out of nine isn't so bad. The score was as follows:

Hartford 1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9—R H E

Owensboro 1 0 0 1 0 3 2 0 0—7 12 10

HONOR MEMORY OF FORMER FOE

A Very Unusual Event At Indianapolis.

THE UNVEILING OF MONUMENT To Former Federal Commander By Confederates At Latter's Expense.

"ALL LINES EFFACED NOW"

The changes of shifting time did, on the afternoon of June 10, witness an occurrence the announcement of which a few years ago would have been greeted with incredulity. Survivors of a large detachment of Confederate prisoners confined throughout the greater part of the Civil War at Camp Morton, Indianapolis, Ind., attended the unveiling of a handsome marble monument erected to the memory of Col. Richard M. Owen, the Federal Commander who was their keeper.

Gen. Bennett H. Young, who only recently returned from Chattanooga, Tenn., where he was re-elected Commander in Chief of the United Confederate Veterans, made the presentation address at Indianapolis, accepting the monument on behalf of the Confederacy and the South.

Thomas R. Marshall, Vice President of the United States, was among the notable men present and made an appropriate speech of acceptance on behalf of the North.

"The imaginary line marking the old-time boundary separating the North from the South appears to have been effectually effaced," declared Gen. Young recently.

According to Gen. Young, several hundred Confederate soldiers taken prisoner in battle were confined at Ft. Donaldson, S. C., for a long while. It became necessary to distribute the prisoners among other places of confinement and about three hundred were sent to Camp Morton.

The treatment accorded the prisoners at Camp Morton was most humane and kind. While there they had no cause of complaint in any form other than their enforced separation from conflict in behalf of their cause. Conditions were so different from those they had been forced to undergo at Ft. Donaldson that Col. Owens was ever held in fond remembrance.

Some time ago the move to erect a monument to his memory was put on foot and met with instant approval. The funds to erect the monument which cost about $20,000 were subscribed by the living Confederates and survivors of those who have died since the war. This is the first known occasion when one former man has had cause to remember his one-time enemy with such loving affection that a memorial has been subscribed to keep his memory ever green.

In addition to the distinguished speakers who were present at the unveiling a large number of both Federal and Confederate veterans attended. The occasion was indeed a gala one in Indianapolis where preparations were made for an elaborate entertainment.

A MAIL ORDER TAX AND HOW IT WOULD OPERATE

A bill has been recently introduced in Congress calling for an internal revenue tax on one per cent, of the total amount of sales of mail order houses through inter-state commerce. Leading wholesalers say this tax is too small.

While such a tax would be a protection to the retail store, it should not be sought primarily as a protective measure. There is a real basis for such a levy, as a fair contribution by these houses from their great traffic.

Under present conditions, probably none of these concerns pays a fair share of the country's burdens. The retail merchant pays a stiff tax, because he must keep a large assortment of goods on hand. The public will not buy his goods "unseen." People demand a chance to see them, and a considerable assortment so that they can select from various styles and prices. The merchant thus carries much tangible property, which the assessor sees, and which he taxes.

By clever advertising, the mail order house escapes the usual necessity of business—that the purchaser be shown the goods. The purchaser buys on faith. The proportion of goods kept on hand is very small compared to what the retail merchant keeps. The assessor cannot find much taxable property in catalogue books. What the mail order house pays of course varies according to the laws of different States. But the assessable property on hand must usually be very small in proportion to the business done and the profits thereof.

It seems only fair that such houses should pay a liberal excise tax. Otherwise they enter into competition with the retail merchant without the handicap of taxation which he must always carry. —[Maysville Bulletin.]

 THE HOME PAPER.
 • • • • •

It wants you on its reading list, recorded on its books, and then you'll get it every week and know just how it looks.

It will tell you all about the news, in this and nearby towns; who gets married, dies, is born, and who elopes or drowns.

There isn't a thing from A to Z that tends to help the town, that the paper doesn't catch it up and quickly pass it round.

It tells about your visitors, with titles emphasized, while all their points of merit are freely generalized.

It tells the story of success, but screens the failure side, and when the facts will make a mess, it simply lets them slide.

It tells about your virtues and overlooks your sins, and puts an extra emphasis upon the birth of twins.

It never dares to tell a lie, except in personal praise, and then it does it clear and strong, and with the choicest phrase.

In writing up your marriage, it elaborates with care, and says the bride was beautiful and the groom was on the square.

It doesn't matter who it is that crosses Jordan's river, the paper tickets him a saint and safely sends him thither.

It tells about that darling boy, who had a dollar raise, leaves out his measly little tricks and just recites his praise.

And there's your daughter on the street, gadding night and day, or all the rumor slow or fleet, it wisely does not say.

It paints out every blemish on the picture of your life, and paints in every virtue of a home that has no strife.

It learns to read between the lines and find the tender spot, to blow not cold on young or old, when the blowing should be hot.

It senses all the skeletons behind the closet door and runs its big blue pencil through the lines that turn them o'er.

It knows about your weaknesses, your little streaks of yellow, just how to smother ill reports, or make them smooth and mellow.

It knows what families live in peace and those most apt to jar, and whether it's just a birthmark, or a sad domestic scar.

It knows the man who pays and the one who could but won't, and all the chronic knockers and the one who makes a "hurt."

It knows the financial standing of every man in town, and whether his living or cheerless giving, that constantly keeps him down.

Unlike the city dailies that delve in scandal's sewer, it eliminates the sewage and retains the good and pure.

"No," said Mr. Fletcher. "Because he has to get along without sales." —[Spokane Chronicle.]

HE FOUND HIS WIFE IN A "WILD WEST" PARADE

And Rescued Her From Accident—Had Quarreled, But "Made Up."

The Atlanta Constitution of Thursday says:

It was the day of the circus—that is, Monday. Buffalo Bill's wild west parade was marching down Whitehall in Atlanta and across the viaduct into Peachtree. Throngs of spectators lined the sidewalk on either side of the street.

Suddenly the saddle girth of one of the lady riders became loose and the saddle turned, threatening the rider with disaster. A man from among the spectators on the sidewalk rushed out and caught her, saving her from a fall. They gazed into each other's eyes for an instant and then there was a mutual exclamation of recognition.

"My God! It's Agnes," the man cried.

"Why, Jack, of all the people in the world, I least expected to see you," was the reply. "Where have you been and what are you doing in Atlanta?"

The man was John R. Edwards, a stonemason at the quarries near the city. The girl was known to the show people as Miss Agnes Slade, but to the man she was Mrs. John R. Edwards.

Incredible as this story of their chance meeting may seem, it was indeed his wife, from whom he had separated, after a bitter quarrel in Boston, fifteen months ago. They had never dreamed of meeting each other in Atlanta.

That evening they met and talked things over.

"Jack," she said, "you know I love you more than ever, a thousand times, since I have learned of all you have been through. Let's go back together again. I'm tired of the show, anyway."

So all their old quarrels were forgotten, never to be even so much as thought of again. She is to come back as soon as she finishes her engagement with the show, which will be in only two weeks, and then they are to live together in Atlanta.

HE IS 93 YEARS OLD AND HAS 262 DESCENDANTS

Thomas Allison, of Newton county, Ark., comes pretty close to the record in the number of his descendants. He is 93 years old, was married three times, and has 262 descendants in all. He is the father of 50 children, grandfather of 125 children, great-grandfather of 60 children, and great-great-grandfather of 27 children. His oldest child is 65, and his youngest is 11 years of age. The parents are incarnated in the features, character and activity of the children; what arithmetic can compute the influence of this man nearing the centenary mark on his 262 descendants, and those that shall be born to them? How important that there be the proper parental example and instruction! There is such a continuous line of heirs to the cities of the dead that cradles, and many of them, too, are necessary to keep the balance of population on the proper side. —[Christian Herald.]
